Ex-U. S. Semaior Nicholson sent begeneral plan which I have been library to the Lines.

[From the Nashville Union.]

The following order strikes a blow in the right quarter. Col. Nicholson is a man of warl'n and influence, and has been highly honoored by the government; yet, forgetful of his duty, be has repaid the kindess of his countrymen by plunging them in civil war.

[Rianquarwas U. S. Fonces.]

O. P. Nicholson, late United Sites Sension, and Colonel Joseph Branch. both citizens of Manry county, in the State of Tennessee, arowed sympathisers with the so-called Southern confederacy, who openly refuse to declare their future allegiance to the federal government, are deemed unworthy of enjoying any of the inestimable privileges of a citize no it these United States. Therefore, it is ordered that the said A. O. P. Nicholson, and Col. Joseph Branch, do each take the oath of allegiance, accompanied with a bond and proper security conditioned for his faithful observance of said oath of allegiance. If they, or either of them, refine to take oath and give bond as aforesald, then, such one so refining shall give his individual bond in the penal shm of ten thousand dollars ($10.000) additional that he will remain without the same during the continuace of the present rebellion. If either of them giving such bonds should return, in violation of its provisions, he will, in addition to the forefeiture of his bond, he arrested as a spy and treated accordingly. By command.

There are all sorts of rumors in regard to Balon Rongs. Some claim to have seen a copy of an extra Germada Appeal which says the place is in the hands of Breckinridge, and that he had captured four regiments and six transports, and sunktwo of our gunbosts.

The same extra has a dispatch dated the Tth from Cumberland Gap, which states that a fight had taken place at Tazewell, eight miles from Cumberland Gap, between the federal General Morgan and the confederate General General General Morgan and the confederate General General General Morgan and the confederate General General Morgan and the confederate General General General Morgan and the confederate General General General Morgan and the confederate General G men to Ger. [Special Dispatch to the Chicato Tribune.]

Washington, Angust 15, 1863—10.45 p. m.

New York has the honor of having organized, equipped and put into the field the first regiment under the president's call for 300,000 volunters, raised by Measrs. Van Valkenberg and Diven, both members of Congress, who left the day after the president's call to commence the raising of troops.

It appears that/only half-way work was made with Benham, after all. He was deprived of his commission as brigadier general in the volunteer service, but allowed to retain his place as major of engineers in the regular army, where it is amposed that, as he will have no command of troops, it will be impossible for him to do much harm, through yielding to his prevailing weakness. Benham is in town in citizen's clothes.

Gen. King's force effected a junction with Pope hast Monday near the late battle field.

Hon. Shelby M. Cullum, Speaker of the House of Representatives of Himols, and late Commissioner of War Chaims as Cairo, has arrived in town upon business connected with that department.

Postage stamp bills for small change are again delayed. It is expected they will be ready for issue about next Tuesday. They will only be distributed through treasury depociaties.

Gen. McCall, just released by the robels, is in town.

Young secessionists from Maryland have been excepting in considerable numbers from several points to go south and enter the rebel service to avoid being drafted. Advices from Poolsville say that nearly one hundred left there last Thursday niget for that purpose.

In the House of Lords, Lord Strathledom moved for the correspondance with Mr. Mason relative to the acknowledgment of the southern confederate states. Lord Reseell said it was not expected to produce any papers. The agent of the confederate states was not recognized, and all communications were unofficial. Correspondence had taken place with Measrs. Adams and Seward, but the British gyverament replied as before. He stated that no ecommunication had been received from any foreign power relative to the recognition of the Sunbern States.

Earl Malmbury suggested that the government should communicate with other power with a view to offering mediation, if a favorable opportunity arrises.

Lord Russell agreed that it was desirable, if mediation is offered, that all powers should join in it. He paid a high compilment to Lord Lyces.

The motion was finally withdrawn.

In the Home of Commons, Mr. Cleare, in answer to Mr. Seymour, said the prayer which the Bishop of Oxford wished used with respect to civil war, was not in violation of the act of uniformity. Mr. Seymour gave notice that he would repeal the question on the 7th. If I have the proposed that the French army moves to render France independent of America for cotton.

Well, that's decidedly refreshing. We suppose that our pirate-admirer, finding himself too busy at Gallatin lite work of plander to be able to write to us with his own hand as he had previously done, employed offs of his female votaries of theft and robbery to write for him. We wonder why we have got nothing from the interesting widow who publicly (and perhaps privately), hugged and kissed him at Versallies. The he-pirates steal for the she-one, and the she-ones write interes for the he-one. The absulful arrangement.

The pirate chief's female pet asks if we wouldn't like for be with him in Gallatin. Cortainly we would it accompanied by loyal troops half equal in number to his own precious gang. She says that we have offered a hundred timusand dollars for her ido's head, and that he offers $100,000 better for ours. Urdoubtedly John is right in supposing that our head is worth wice as much as his own, but then we as yer offered $100,000 for his. That's a higher price than we could afford to set up in suct a foul nest of the obsecue bird of triasoe. The intelligence that Morgan's cousis accompanies him with 400 Indians is new to us, but not improbable. ELECTION OF PIELD OFFICERA

And now what have been the fortunes of this commander and of our boys? The former, the victim of a court-marthal after repeated indignities from a pre-slavery general, who has only been serviceable to home traiters in the South; our boys, who never in any action from colonel to private showed the white feather, disgraced and sent to the rear, dissevered and doing the work properly belonging to the blacks. Why? For the reason that Don Carlos Buell is determined to kill this regionist, as one of his own Kentucky Capitales states. These things, as we said before, have erested strong feellegs in this community. Toey cannot and will not appreciate the fact that a general should suffer because he believes in carrying on this war vigorously and energeti-

It is pretity evident, therefore, that we have now commenced a fair average wheat crop; that the yield of barley, beans and peas will be only moiested, but that the growth of oats will be large. Future prices, however, will be regulated more by the extent off our importations than by full crops in this country. Of course, we do not lose sight of important induced upon prices; but, at the same time the foreign grower must forward his nead supply of grain, if the quotations are to be kept within a moderate range. On this point we have no niegivings. It is possible that we may import less wheat and flour from America during the next five months than in the control of the country of the
